

WORLD TRIATHLON ANTI-DOPING DATA PRIVACY POLICY

Purpose

World Triathlon (TRI) is committed to protecting the privacy and personal information of Athletes, Athlete Support Personnel, and others involved in our Anti-Doping activities. The administration of the TRI Anti-Doping Programme requires Athletes and their entourage to provide personal and often sensitive information. Additionally, TRI, its Staff, third-party contractors, and partners involved in Anti-Doping activities must access and process this data to meet obligations under the World Anti-Doping Code.

This Data Privacy Policy outlines the reasons for collecting and using personal data within Anti-Doping activities and the safeguards to ensure it is processed responsibly and legally. TRI is committed to protecting this information per the International Standard for the Protection of Privacy and Personal Information (ISPPPI), the Swiss Data Protection Act (FADP), the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), and other applicable data protection laws.

Scope

TRI recognises its responsibility to ensure that personal data processed as part of Anti-Doping activities is handled securely, legally, and transparently. This Data Privacy Policy applies to all personal information processed in the context of TRI's Anti-Doping Programme. It includes data relating to Athletes, Athlete Support Personnel, and any individuals whose personal information is handled in connection with Anti-Doping activities.

This Data Privacy Policy applies to all TRI Staff, legal representatives, third-party contractors and partners involved in processing personal data in connection with Anti-Doping activities, including but not limited to doping controls, whereabouts filings, TUE applications, results management, hearings, and education.

Legal Framework and Principles

TRI adheres to the following key data protection principles:

- 1. Lawfulness, Fairness, and Transparency

Personal information is collected and used fairly, lawfully, and transparently.

- 2. Purpose Limitation

Data is collected only for specific, legitimate purposes related to anti-doping activities and is not used beyond those purposes.

3. Data Minimisation

Only the data necessary for fulfilling Anti-Doping obligations is collected and processed.

4. Accuracy

Reasonable steps are taken to ensure that personal information is accurate and up to date.

5. Storage Limitation

Personal information is retained only as long as necessary and disposed of securely when no longer required.

6. Integrity and Confidentiality

Personal data is protected against unauthorised access, alteration, disclosure, or destruction through technical and organisational safeguards.

7. Accountability

TRI is responsible for ensuring compliance with data protection regulations and this Data Privacy Policy.

TRI ensures that individuals are informed about the reasons for processing their data and the safeguards applied. All processing is limited to the extent necessary to carry out Anti-Doping responsibilities.

Collecting and Processing of Personal Information

The types of personal data processed by TRI in connection with Anti-Doping activities include, but are not limited to:

- Athlete identity details such as name, date of birth, and nationality
- Contact information and sporting affiliations
- Whereabouts information submitted under the Code
- Doping control forms, laboratory results, and TUE documentation
- Results management and disciplinary records
- Health data, including any sensitive health or genetic information collected during testing

This data may be collected directly from the individual, such as when submitting whereabouts information or applying for a TUE, or through authorised sources such as National Anti-Doping Organisations (NADOs), the International Testing Agency (ITA), or other relevant stakeholders.

TRI ensures that all individuals are informed about the purpose and legal basis of data collection, the categories of data involved, who it may be shared with, and what rights they have concerning their personal data.

Disclosure of personal information

TRI may share personal data with authorised recipients only where necessary for the implementation of its Anti-Doping Rules and in accordance with the ISPPPI and applicable laws. These include WADA, NADOs, the ITA, other International Federations, Major Event Organisers, and authorised service providers.

Where data is transferred across national borders, TRI ensures that such transfers are subject to appropriate safeguards that maintain the same standard of protection as required under European data protection laws.

Such disclosures are made only when necessary for the fulfilment of TRI's Anti-Doping responsibilities and are always subject to appropriate safeguards. Contracts and agreements with third parties include strict confidentiality and data protection obligations to ensure that personal data remains protected at all times.

Practical Application and Safeguards

As a condition of eligibility to compete, Athletes and relevant persons agree to provide personal information as required under the TRI Anti-Doping Rules. This includes sensitive data related to health or disciplinary processes. TRI commits to protecting this information through a combination of legal, technical, and procedural safeguards.

All TRI Staff, legal representatives, third-party contractors, and associated service providers working with Anti-Doping data must sign confidentiality agreements and comply with data protection requirements. TRI's internal access to data is limited to authorised individuals on a strict need-to-know basis. Data is stored in secure systems, and any transmission of personal data is encrypted and protected from unauthorised access.

Retention and Deletion

Personal data is retained only as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes for which it was collected. Once no longer needed, data is securely deleted or anonymised by the ISPPPI and applicable regulations.

Rights of Individuals

Individuals whose personal data is processed by TRI have several rights under data protection law (FADP, GDPR and ISPPPI). These include the right to access their data, to request corrections if it is inaccurate, to request erasure under certain conditions, and to restrict or object to its processing where appropriate.

TRI is committed to enabling individuals to exercise these rights in a timely and transparent manner. Requests can be directed to our designated data protection contact, who will guide individuals through the relevant procedures and respond following legal requirements.

Governance and data protection of contact

In accordance with the ISPPPI, TRI has appointed the Anti-Doping Manager as the person responsible for compliance with the ISPPPI and other applicable privacy and data protection laws, as well as to handle complaints and enable the data subjects to exercise the data subject rights available under the ISPPPI and other applicable data protection laws. Managing Personal Data Breaches

In the event of a personal data breach, TRI has established procedures to respond promptly and effectively. This includes identifying and containing the breach, notifying affected individuals and relevant authorities where necessary, and implementing corrective measures to prevent future incidents.

All breaches are documented, reviewed, and followed by a compliance check to ensure lessons are learned and safeguards are improved.

Ongoing Compliance and Review

TRI commits to regularly reviewing and updating this Data Privacy Policy to ensure continued compliance with international standards and legal obligations. Any changes are communicated appropriately, and any non-compliance is investigated and addressed through corrective action. Feedback from all stakeholders is welcome to improve the protection of personal data in the context of Anti-Doping. Contact jeanne.courbe@triathlon.org.
